FACT SHEET

Locations
Main campus: 4701 West Gate Blvd, Austin, Texas

Year founded
1993

President
William R. Morris, PhD

Faculty
10 full-time, 17 adjunct, 17 clinical supervisors

Total number of employees
74

Degree granted
Master of Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine

Enrollment
213

Alumni
434

Faculty/student ratio
1:17

Accreditations (select)
Southern Association of Colleges and Schools
Texas State Board of Acupuncture Examiners
California Acupuncture Board
Accreditation Commission for Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine

Annual budget
$3.5 million

Governance
Board of Governors

Clinic appointments
20,000 patient visits annually

Community partners
Seton Family of Hospitals, People’s Community Clinic, American Botanical Council

*All statistics are accurate as of Dec 2010
About AOMA
AOMA Graduate School of Integrative Medicine offers a masters-level graduate program in acupuncture and Chinese medicine, preparing its students for careers as skilled, professional practitioners. AOMA is known for its internationally recognized faculty, award-winning student clinical internship program, and for having more licensed graduates than any other acupuncture and Chinese medicine college in Texas. Since its founding in 1993, AOMA has grown rapidly in size and reputation, drawing students from around the nation and faculty from around the world. AOMA also conducts more than 20,000 patient visits annually in its student and professional clinics. AOMA collaborates with healthcare institutions including the Seton Family of Hospitals, and gives back to the community through partnerships with nonprofit organizations and by providing free and reduced price treatments to people who cannot afford them.

AOMA is located at 4701 West Gate Blvd, Austin, TX 78745. AOMA also serves patients and retail customers at its north Austin location, 2700 West Anderson Lane, Austin, TX 78757. For more information see www.aoma.edu or call 512-492-3034.

Updated 05/11